POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Coals of fire have been heaped on the State Legislature in times past—oft with considerable justification—but the 1943 legislative session, trying to measure up to the exigencies of the war situation, is achieving a record for brevity and intelligent action that is more deserving of praise than criticism.

Passed by the Assembly, for example, and far ahead of schedule, Governor Warren's $450,000,000 budget bill is before the Senate currently for final action, with every indication that it will be disposed of quickly, and with the result that the decks will be cleared for early consideration which can't be cleared until the budget is approved. Declared Speaker of the Assembly Charlie Lyon, in commenting on quick approval of the budget bill in the lower house:

"I reiterate the prediction that the session will be able to adjourn during the first week in May or earlier. The log jam of bills that usually piles up behind the budget will not accumulate this year."

Credit for the speed-up in Assembly action on the budget bill, incidentally, should go largely to Assemblyman Albert C. Wollenberg, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means committee, whose early, painstaking work made it possible to get prompt consideration of the big spending bill.

With the food-and-fiber production bill out of the way—which ranks as one of the biggest contributions of the 1943 Legislature toward solving the critical problem of farm manpower—the two most controversial issues remaining are the program for reduction of state taxes, as proposed by Governor Warren's tax committee, and the pension question.

While there may be heated debate over the particulars of the tax reduction program, this much can be safely forecast at this time: The state Income Tax will be reduced; the sales tax will be reduced; and local property taxes will be reduced. How much each will be cut is still debatable, but a comprehensive tax reduction plan, benefiting all classes of taxpayers, is almost a certainty.

The pension issue is fraught with greater danger. Organized pension groups are demanding a $60 a month pension at 60 years of age. To many legislators, even those sympathetic with the pension cause, that spells economic disaster. But probably, out of it all, will come a happy medium, with a sounder, better pension system, shorn of extravagant requirements.

Library Tea Is Monday Event of Spring Season

Interesting event of the spring season will be the library tea given by the Country Woman's club Monday in the community hall of the library building.

The tea is slated to begin at three o'clock and will take the place of the annual pilgrimage which has been abandoned because of gas rationing. The afternoon is under the direction of the regular committee of the day and the library committee. Mrs. W. F. Grattan and Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, the chairmen of these committees are being assisted in plans for the affair by Mesdames Herbert Hudson, H. E. Hansen, F. A. Jacobson, and R. B. Hummel.

The musical program will include numbers by an instrumental trio consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Gordon and Mrs. D. A. Sanders. Mrs. Earl Buck will sing and Mrs. John Pollard will present piano compositions.

Miss Muriel Carson, librarian at the Campbell High school, will review "The Human Comedy" by William Saroyan. Mrs. Rex Fuller will give a number of readings.

Presiding over the tea table will be the club's president, Mrs. G. E. Jeffers and the past-president, Mrs. W. R. Morgan.

The tea is open to the public and there will be a nominal fee. The proceeds will be used to buy new books for the local public library. Members are hoping for a large attendance so that Campbell residents may have the benefit of the latest books.

Youth of Church To Spend Week End at Resort

Young people of the Congregational church to the number of 25 or more will spend the week-end at Hidden Villa, leaving Friday afternoon and returning Sunday afternoon. They will be accompanied by their religious education leaders and Rev. J. H. Bennett.

The outing has a dual purpose, character building and supervised recreation.

The young people have arranged a program of discussions, the theme of which will be "Present Day Attitudes of Youth." They have also selected a speaker to conduct a Sunday meeting.

Games, hikes and other amusements will occupy part of the time.

CUB SCOUTS ORGANIZED

A final meeting of parents interested in again promoting Cub Scout work in the Campbell area, met in the Congregational church Wednesday night and the successful organization of Dens is now in progress.

The Cub packs in Cambrian district will be conducted by leaders in their own area.

First Chapter to Reach Quota and Over In San Jose District.

The original quota was set at $1500, which was advanced to $2000 and still the generous people of the district, together with the untiring efforts of the volunteer solicitors exceeded that by $1127.82.

The organizers of the drive and the council members feel like using all of the adjectives that producers employ in describing moving pictures—stupendous, colossal, superlative, the results are so gratifying.

Chapters of the San Jose Red Cross which turned in $15,686.31 to the district's funds were Campbell, Cupertino, Morgan Hill, Mt. Hamilton, Santa Clara and Sunnyvale.

PANIC IN POINTS

Last week, California's retail grocers presented a plan for point rationing simplification to Price Administrator Brown. The plan calls for less variety in point values, and reduction in values of dried fruits. Your grocer's working to solve your knottier problems along with his.

Your local grocer is the man behind the eight ball right now. He can only serve you well, if you help him to do so. Since rationing began, housewives have been sitting back, waiting for the end of the month to spend their points. The reasons—fear of not having enough, and a good supply of most foods on hand!

But if you wait to buy till the end of the month, everyone will rush down simultaneously and a panic in points will result.

Still more important these days—patronize your local grocer. His allowable inventory consisted in twice the number of points he takes in during March, so points used out of town mean that many cans lost to you—should you want them when they aren't obtainable.

Buying at home always had "high point value" in good citizenship, as well as in practical management. America's retailing facilities has brought into smaller communities all the advantages of big city shopping at the same economical values. Now, with gas to be saved it's a boon we've learned to value.

But further, it's essential, now, to keep the home markets operating efficiently. Most of us will be glad enough to help our grocer, when we understand his quandaries. Plan carefully, buy weekly, and don't let points panic you. And don't leave your grocer holding the bag!

EASY COME, EASY GO?

Shall California enter the contest with neighbor states in the easy-come, easy-go marriage and divorce business? Legislation before the current Legislature is designed to "liberalize" present state laws so that short term divorce and immediate marriage can be managed within the state.

Marriage is the moral provision for reproducing the race. Shall it be entered into inadvisedly, under the influence of gin, sudden whimsical impulses of adolescent youth, or for a momentary adventure?

Such reasons for marriage could scarcely be expected to produce the kind of young our country needs, youth who may grow up with sound minds and bodies, with firm backgrounds of affectionate parentage.

The best of marriages can fail but we don't need to aid them to do so. If the laws of a land mean to protect its citizens, the present California law which requires publication of intention to wed, and a three-day wait, is far better than any liberalization, so-called, could be.

The "wave of the future" should include better marriage, better parentage, better youth. The empire of the home is the foundation of world betterment, of world peace. Let California do all it can to protect this empire. Our Golden State has long since outgrown the moral laxities of its beginnings. We must legislate for the welfare of the children.

Two proposals of marriage in one mail came to widower General Sir Bernard Montgomery, British Eighth Army Commander. He wrote it to his mother and she made the letter public. But the General must get on with his war in Tunisia, or the proposals may be withdrawn! Winner takes all!

WHAT PRICE, PEACE?

The far off cries of the newsboys shouting "Uxtry, United States declares war on Germany," was our first consciousness of war that April day in 1917. No radios announced it. There were none.

World War I tumbled into the laps of a people still used to horses and buggies. Electric lights were only beginning to penetrate the rural communities. Telephones were a means for discovering your neighbor's secrets.

It was a nice little world. To remember it, dates you sadly, for that was 26 years ago. More than a quarter of a century. Your ministers were preaching sermons against the girls who bobbed their hair, and wore slits in their hobble skirts to reveal an inch of cotton clad legs. Boys and girls made fudge in the kitchen on Sunday afternoon. The hairbreadth escapes of Harold Lloyd, tottering at the edge of some tall building, were too exciting to be borne—and then the love scenes, tsk, tsk. Till then ours was a heritage of peace.

If the sophistication of the world shoots forward comet-wise for the next quarter century, what will be the world of our grandchildren? No wistful melody like "Tipperary" has come out of World War II. We are realists. We know that peace is more glorious than war. If we must fight to maintain our liberty, we shall fight to the death—not because it is glorious, but because it is the only choice. We have no song for war. Only the words of Sherman.

The gangster methods of Hitler, Mussolini, and the Japanese war lords evolved from World War I. What Phoenix will rise from this one? We ask for a final peace to commemorate April 6, 1917, but have we learned enough to write it? Has self-seeking given place to the good of the whole? In that other war, we asked, "What Price, Glory?" Now we ask, "What price, a heritage of peace?"

MADAME CHIANG KAI-SHEK

China is fortunate, indeed, in having such a brilliant and personable goodwill ambassador as Madame Chiang Kai-shek to plead her cause with the American people. In her appearances in California, Mme. Chiang won her audiences, not only by the logic of her presentation, but by the sincerity and deep earnestness of her message. She spoke not just for the brave people of China, but for all people, throughout the world who have suffered from tyranny and oppression—and who look forward to a day when human dignity and justice and decency will be honored and respected again in the society of nations.

In the years to come, China, in all likelihood, will emerge as one of the truly great powers of the post-war era. And the world is fortunate that China's great generalissimo and the First Lady of China have high idealism as well as courage to guide them and their people.

JITTERY BERLIN!

American and British troops, preparing for invasion of the continent, staged a "trial offensive" sham battle of such realistic character in England last week that German planes, spotting the operations, alarmed Berlin with reports that the long expected attack was actually under way. As a consequence, the German radio immediately broadcast a frantic story that "The Allies are massing for some audacious attempt on the continent"—and the Nazis shivered for days, waiting for the sound of gunfire. Actually, of course, the final offensive against Nazidom hasn't yet begun, but the panic of Hitler's gangsters is quite understandable. Berlin has reason to be jittery. There's a day of reckoning coming, not far distant, when the men who started this diabolical attempt to enslave free people and destroy every decent standard of civilization, must stand trial—if they live that long—before a tribunal of the United Nations. In the meantime, they pace their rooms like condemned men, waiting for the day of execution. We can understand their alarm, even if we have no sympathy for them.

The Most Unkindest Cut of All

By IRVIN S. COBB

ON THE stage of a music hall in the East End of London a memory wizard with a pronounced cockney accent was offering an exhibition of his skill. In response to questions from the audience he gave, off-hand, and promptly, the dates of historic events, the distance from the earth to the moon, and other facts and figures without limit.

It was quite evident from the language of some of his statements that the performer was a most patriotic Briton. Invariably, when mentioning a great Englishman or a great English achievement, his voice rose exultantly.

Sitting well down the front were two Americans. They figured that the wizard must have accomplices in the house to ask him questions prepared beforehand. To find out whether or not the performer did have the powers of memory he boasted and with a view also to arousing his patriotic fervor to a still higher pitch if possible, one of the Yankees called out:

"Professor, please tell me what memorable event occurred on July the Fourth, 1776?"

Without a moment's hesitation the professor shot back his reply: "A h'infernal h'outrage, sir!" he shouted.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Mama's Bank Account" by Kathryn Forbes.

Perhaps the greatest thrill we get out of reading a book is to find that the characters and situations, in a way, coincide with incidents and people in our own lives. In reading this book there are many such incidents which remind me of our early family life when my three sisters and I were going to school and "Mama" had a mystic bank account. In this book the author has written primarily of Mama. The story is told in first person, relating the author's childhood through her school years, the primary grades and high school and her venture into the business world.

Kathryn Forbes' first success in writing was a short story titled "Mama's Bank Account" which appeared about a year ago in Readers Digest. So numerous were her fan mail requests for more and bigger stories that she ventured to write the full length book including the major activities in which Mama starred.

Coincidental does this book appear with William Saroyan's "The Human Comedy," portraying the family life of a small boy in a central valley town of California. The site of Kathryn Forbes' book is San Francisco and the commentator of the story is a girl, while Saroyan obviously employs the young boy for his spokesman. But to get back to "Mama." The ups and downs of a family, everyone's family, are both sad and comical, and it is a great blessing when one of the parents is capable of guiding each member of the household through his tragic, and his happy hours. Mama is a simple, lovable, charitable and courageous Mother. Everyone leans on her, and turns to her for love, advice and money. Mama and Papa are Norwegian, but the children, there are four, are Americans, all having been born in San Francisco. I think it is Mama's goodness, her humor and natural feeling for the right thing to do and say that are the outstanding qualities of this book and give it reality.

Its sweetness, its simplicity and humanness will make all of you who read it say as Mama herself says when she is especially pleased, "Is good."

S. P. FORMS WOMEN TRACK GANGS

Formation of a number of all-women track maintenance gangs in California, Oregon and Arizona, has just been announced by Southern Pacific as its latest move to help relieve an acute shortage of male section hands. Shown above are members of a 35-woman group shoveling excess ballast from between the rails near Watsonville.

Although women are new to Southern Pacific track gangs, some 2500 "railroadettes" in the past year have taken over numerous other jobs formerly performed exclusively by men, in the railroad's shops and store department. The women track workers perform the lighter jobs such as shoveling ballast and distributing tie plates, spikes and bolts for use by the section men.

Southern Pacific is already employing thousands of students and businessmen each weekend in its maintenance forces to help keep tracks in shape for the handling of vital war traffic, and addition of the full-time women track gangs will provide further valuable assistance in the manpower emergency. Railroad officials emphasized, however, that the pressing need still exists for thousands of regular male section hands.

Kenneth Dwelley Speaks at Club on "Food for Victory"

Kenneth W. Dwelley who is serving the community and his country most ardently in the agricultural classes, both high school and adult, that he has been and is conducting talked to the Kiwanis club Tuesday on "Food for Victory."

He emphasized that food is needed not only as a weapon for war, but as much for the peace to follow. "Our job," he said, "seems to be to feed the invaded countries, as well as our allies, as the Axis strips a country of its food."

"The answer to more food in this country is the development of our small plots and gardens. The local high school has inaugurated six courses each totaling 24 hours of attendance, to help in this work. The courses include building of poultry pens and rabbit hutches, farm butchering, farm machinery repairs, and is leading the county in this work.

Over 400 adults have attended these courses this spring and will continue in other lines."

Paul Becker, one of the members of the club who is leaving to enter the service was tendered a farewell, accompanied with a small gift from his fellow Kiwanians.

Clarence Nelson as chairman saw that his comrades contributed "chicken feed" to the charity fund.

There will be no regular Tuesday meeting next week as the bond dinner on Friday night will take its place.

Through an oversight no mention was made in the report last week of the boy's orchestra that entertained with several selections. The orchestra includes high school boys organized for their own benefit.

Those making the trip were Carl Meyer, Dick Whalen, Larry Cowper, Franklin Dennis, Billy Harrison, Stan Gould, Albert McQueen, Lee Baker, Claude Grizzle, Mac Martin, Mervyn Nelson, Paul Meyer and Charles Simonds, adviser. Red Cross Gets $269.29 In Campbell Hi Drive

The Campbell Union High school added $269.29 to the Red Cross funds when the final figures were turned in on March 19. "Almost everyone in the school joined in contributing," Mrs. Alfreda Runge said, "and I am really proud of the results."

This shows what the students can do once they make up their minds to do it.

Six Members Elected To Senior Council

Seniors recently chose council members for the rest of this term, electing one from each social studies class.

Those who will serve on the council are Roy Van Gorkom, Dorothy Barleban, Charles Reese, Irene Rose and Ruth Cousins.

They will assist the officers, who include Carl Field, president; Peter Messa, vice-president; Marie Lobrovich, secretary; and Newell Johnson, business manager.

Rationed Farm Machinery

Farm machinery now in dealers' hands was released for distribution through the county farm rationing committees. Farmers wishing to buy rationed equipment must make application for its purchase through the county boards, which are expected to place the machinery on the farms where it will produce the most.

Bulldozing

Some of the biggest shots in the great world of business do not control their tempers at all. They use them for bulldozing.

New Telephone Directories Are Being Given Out

A new telephone directory is being delivered to all subscribers served by Santa Clara county central offices, starting March 30, according to R. G. Drake, local manager for The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

A total of 51,362 copies of the new green covered directory will be distributed. The old directories will be collected at the time new ones are delivered. Drake suggested that those who have made use of the space provided on the first page of their old directory for noting numbers they call frequently, tear out this page before relinquishing the book and then transcribe the notations to the first page of the new directory after checking the listings.

"As usual," Drake commented, "The Smiths lead in number of listings with 379 in the new directory. The Johnsons come next with 254 with the Joneses in third place with 121."

In announcing delivery of the new directory, Drake suggested that telephone users make use of it in looking up the numbers of the firms or persons they wish to call, asking information only for those not found listed there.

"This will enable operators to handle calls faster and more efficiently," he stated. "War conditions have placed an unprecedented load on our switchboards and lines and proper use of the directory will greatly facilitate the handling of this load."

He also reminded customers to be sure to remove valuables from between the pages of the old directories before releasing them, pointing out that people sometimes place such things as war bonds, stamps and even money between the pages.

A government circular lists almost 200 plants that are important for food and shelter to various kinds of wildlife, and of these plants almost 150 are recommended also for controlling soil erosion.

FOR VICTORY

William Johnson To Speak at Church Sunday

Dr. William R. Johnson, teacher in one of China's Methodist Christian colleges and field representative for the American Red Cross for China relief since 1941 will be speaker at the Campbell Methodist church this Sunday morning at the 11:00 o'clock hour. Uniting with the Methodist church will be members of the Congregational church making this a union service.

Dr. Johnson has resided in China for 36 years and will be able to give to the people of this community many of the important points of information they are seeking concerning war-torn China. Dr. Johnson's coming to Campbell is possible through the acquaintance of Rev. D. H. Baldwin with his son, William Johnson, Jr., who is the Methodist minister in Gilroy.

The public is cordially invited to this service.

Eva Hoerner In WAVES

Washington, D. C. is the new home and duty station of Eva Hoerner, one of the first WAVES from Campbell. She will be assigned to duty by the Navy Department offices immediately following her graduation from training school this week.

Miss Hoerner, who enlisted in the Women's Naval Reserve late last year, has been attending Navy classes at Oklahoma A. and M., Stillwater, and will graduate as a petty officer, Yeoman, Third Class.

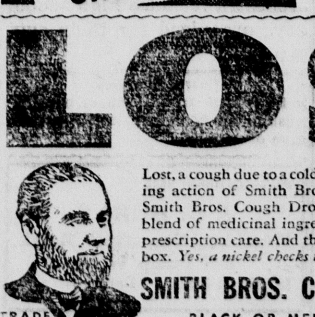

More than 35,000 WAVES and SPARS will be on duty by the end of the year, the San Jose Navy Recruiting station estimates, and many more young women 20 to 36 are needed at once to train for the many interesting petty officer ratings which enable women to take the shore jobs of sailors who are needed at sea.

Reasons for Hating

Some hate a man who has risen to power because they served as stepping stones for him and some hate him because they didn't when they might have.

Kidneys Must Work Well

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Oils
Cottonseed and peanut oil production for 1942-43 may be smaller than was anticipated earlier, but the soybean crush now seems likely to be larger, according to the department of agriculture.

Less Cancer Than
Primitive races of men had cancer, but to a less extent than civilized man, presumably because fewer primitive men lived to advanced age.

It shall be...

A TOTAL VICTORY A LASTING PEACE

OUR BOYS are striking telling blows these days on many battle fronts. They will strike harder and oftener throughout 1943. And this will be because you with your Bond Dollars are giving them the weapons to fight with. Every ship, plane, tank, gun, rolling off the American line of production, is speeding the day of total victory.

Knowing this, you are willing to sacrifice, to forget luxuries, even to do without many things you have looked upon as living necessities. It is the boys on the firing line who must endure the real hardships. And that our country shall be safe and that we shall win through to a lasting peace, we at home must do our share in the only way open to us—and that is by making sure that the world's best munitions of war are in the hands of the world's best warriors.

Buying War Bonds is the patriotic thing to do. It is also the smart thing to do. It is a guarantee of America's future. For when the boys come home those bonds will be ready to find their way into the channels of free American enterprise—to build homes, establish farms, equip shops, and help our nation move into the blessed activities of Peace.

Buy War Bonds regularly and according to plan. Increase the percentage of your income you are investing in them. Help to build up the grand total of America's Nest Egg.
